NOTE: We are into the processing of surface decoration which is being done on the plain tiles sourced from the plain tiles manufacturers. The process of surface decoration is called third firing in which the screen printed designs are fired at around 1000 degree centigrade depending upon the material applied for decorating the surface. By doing this process basic characteristic value of tiles do not change. The body of the tiles will remain the same. So all the technical specifications given above pertain to the base tiles specifications as outsourced by us for our designing purpose.
